

Hi Jonathan,

Recently, significant government funds have become available to support selected corporate training programs. We have found that a typical qualifying corporation will receive $30,000-$300,000 in funding.

Cox eLearning Consultants is preparing an industry research report on this subject and would appreciate your input.

Would you take five minutes to complete the survey via the following link.

As a thank you, we will present you with the survey results and a free executive summary of the report we generate. The information you will gain could provide you with the opportunity for significant funds for important training programs that you are planning.

Sincerely,
