

Hi Joseph,

Rarely have I seen a legitimate “guaranteed offer” that is all that it is cracked up to be. It is even more rare for me to offer a guarantee. It seems as though there are simply too many variables in life and business to be able to guarantee anything.

With that said, I'm going to break the rule. . .

With our firm's expansion into matters of government funding for corporate training, we've learned enough to now be able to offer a guarantee. If you were to purchase any of our firm's products and services, we know with certainty that you'll be able to acquire government funding for the projects we advise you on. If not, we'll return 100% of the fees paid to us.

I know this offer may sound like a big “come-on.” It isn't. For once, we have the opportunity to be assured of getting full value. Up until now, our businesses have been financially strapped, but now we have the opportunity to get money for our training projects.

I hope you want to find out more. You can only win. Click here to be directed to our website for more information.

Sincerely,

Dan Cox
