

BrightStreamTV Launches New Learning Platform to Empower Educators

BrightStreamTV Allows Educators the Opportunity to Break Away from Old Methodologies and Use Technology to Create a New Way to Learn

Charlotte, NC – August 25, 2015 --

BrightStreamTV, a live and interactive learning platform that incorporates social media, will be launching their first live broadcast on August 26th at 1:00 EDT.

They invite all educators to join - free of charge - to learn more about the latest advancement in learning platforms that will empower educators and engage learners. It will entail a 30-minute introduction to the platform and can be viewed live on their website - http://brightstreamtv.com/live_event.

Josh Cavalier, CEO and Founder of BrightStream Media, LLC said:

“BrightStreamTV fills a need in the marketplace for a learning platform that allows educators to learn about the latest technology and how to apply it in the classroom, or anywhere educational media is distributed. Understanding the challenges and limitations that many educators face, all of BrightStreamTV’s live shows and associated student files are included absolutely free – this is an incredible opportunity for educators.”

Two 3-hour training sessions on the new version of Adobe Captivate 9 and on Adobe Premiere CC 2015 will be held on August 28th at 10:00 AM EDT and 2:00 PM EDT respectively. All live broadcasts incorporate social media, are free to attend and include all associated student files including templates and quick start files at no additional cost.

All initial training events will emphasize a subject related to education technology, such as: Audio and Video, Digital Publishing, eLearning, or Instructional Design. Education technology subjects will be expanded upon in the near future. Registration is not required and recorded sessions will be available for purchase to anyone who missed the live broadcast.

Curtis Morley, President of eLearning Brothers, LLC said:

“Everyone that is interested in eLearning needs to take a look at BrightStreamTV. It is one of the most innovative, engaging new methods of training. It’s clear to me it will be a game-changer. In this digital world full of short attention spans, BrightStreamTV gives all educators a new tool that is sure to keep their audience engaged so they can accomplish what they are there to do – learn!”

About BrightStreamTV

BrightStreamTV, brought to you by BrightStream Media, LLC in Charlotte, NC, is a training platform created to empower educators on all aspects of education technology and related concepts. The training experience is founded in live television and viewers will be able to interact virtually with instructors making the experience richer, engaging and personable. To learn more visit www.brightstreamtv.com

Contact Author: Josh Cavalier
BrightStream Media, LLC
704-576-0304
training@brightstreamtv.com

###