Dear Joseph,

As Managing Director of QuickLessons, I understand that the e-Learning industry is changing quickly and the need for fast and easy to develop online courses is growing like never before. This is why we designed QuickLessons to be simple to use with a very intuitive template based interface, and to require no IT support from your internal staff by hosting the platform on our servers.

Using our fully online rapid development platform is as easy as browsing the web, so within a few short minutes after you login you will be able to create dynamic high quality e-Learning content with no programming skills required and available for offline use, online use and upload to any SCORM compliant LMS. When incorporate our exercises, evaluations, avatars and available quiz package you can create courses that engage your learners, accomplishing your training goals. And using learning objects and your own uploaded assets, you can further expedite content production and customize the learning experience.

We have three new yearly subscription licensing options to meet the needs of anyone creating online course content individually or collaboratively:

Individual license
For a single user starts at just $99/month

Corporate licenses
For 5 users or more starts at just $149 per user/month

Academic license
For the entire faculty in one low bundled cost
