Effective Leadership Training

In these tough economic times, a new pedagogy has emerged. Don't just think leadership, do leadership and do it more efficiently. This new approach has taken hold in the form of simulation training. The results are consistently surprising and can demonstrate a significant ROI.

Independent studies demonstrate unprecedented, significantly improved, learning results with the practice-based method to skill-building in SimuLearn's vLeader:

- MBA candidates applied the leadership skills they learned when measured after six months, in contrast to peers taught with traditional content and delivery that were never used
- Supervisors became over 20% more productive six months after completing vLeader, compared to their peers who did not go through the program
- New managers dramatically improved their emotional intelligence (EQ)
